Introduction

The Art of Hanging Art

Systematic Art was established in 2005 to offer innovative, museum-quality, professional art-hanging services through technologically advanced art-hanging hardware. At its inception, Systematic Art served galleries, museums and corporations worldwide. We quickly realized that our products could benefit discerning individual art collectors as well.

Over the years, the Systematic team took many unique and conceptual approaches to its installations that planted the seeds for the company’s development and manufacturing of its own dedicated picture-hanging hardware.

We believe that hanging art is much more than putting nails in the wall. It is an art in itself. Systematic Art’s picture-hanging rails, rods and cables give customers the flexibility to hang, adjust and move art without having to place hooks and holes in the wall, providing a clean, professional, museum-quality look.

After years of servicing clients through our worldwide network, Systematic Art is now pleased to make its art hanging products available online to the public for the first time. We are strongly committed to offer consumers a means of hanging art that has been around for hundreds of years, but with a modern twist. Our hanging cables and self-gripping hooks are an affordable picture-hanging alternative for all. We provide our customers with a user-friendly, clean and attractive means of hanging art, a system that is flexible and reliable, a system that will make putting holes in the wall a thing of the past, and a system that enhances the beauty of the art it supports.
